

Cliché sleeve holder roller

The plate holder, or cliché roller, is the heart of the machine, and its performance determines the machine's productivity and print quality. A carbon plate holder, when properly designed and constructed, can deliver significantly superior print quality at up to twice the speed, thus doubling the machine's effective performance with a small additional investment, which therefore proves to be enormously productive. Fibercompositi manufactures plate holder cylinders and plate holders, with diameters up to 300 mm and table lengths up to 7 m.
